

Peter Sprott

PRESIDENT

Peter spent his early career in print media and commercial radio, working in marketing, event management, current affairs and sport program production. He transitioned to the Not for Profit sector over two decades ago. He was CEO of Ronald McDonald House Monash and Executive Director of Operations for Ronald McDonald House Vic & Tas, with a strong focus on effective management of supported accommodation facilities. Peter was the founding Executive Director of Ready Set Australia (formerly Wear for Success), providing training and quality clothing for people living with disadvantage and seeking employment. Previous roles include CEO of Crime Stoppers Victoria and Victorian Director of Crime Stoppers Australia, working closely with police and government to contribute to crime reduction. He worked with Oxfam and the 7 Network to develop Comic Relief in Australia, raising funds for international poverty relief. Peter was also General Manager of the Melbourne Fashion Festival for five years, playing a key role in the development of one of the state's keynote public and business events. Peter continues to provide career training for young people on a voluntary basis through Ready Set as well as undertaking a paid service for people requiring professional resumes and job-seeking advice. He studied Arts at the University of Adelaide.
